FORWARD

NACD undertook this Directory through the direct expression of its membership. Time and again the organization was queried for information about who was doing what for various programs. Frequently it was asked to identify various consultant firms or technical assistance groups, or to identify pilot projects or research on a given question. It became all too clear that one of the dilemmas of "people out there" was the problem of identifying the myriad of specialists and consultant firms which were carrying out Federally supported work on the local scene. So in the first instance, this Directory is dedicated to the men and women who work in the variety of human resource and community development programs. NACD not only sympathsizes with their difficulties in putting the pieces together but hopes that this Directory will help in some small measure.

As NACD pursued this project it became aware that to unearth what was and is essentially public information was an amazingly difficult task. The Federal agencies ranged from those who were sure there must be a list somewhere to those that said it was an impossible task. NACD, wi dozens of Federal officia the information it needed energy for the project qua Directory therefore is als agencies and people who wo would have liked to have h did't. Without their coop in tracking data this Dire not be possible.

Finally, it is the ho presenting the basic data prejudice, or comment, tha basis of research for othe functional fields are bei sized and what organizatio of Federal money. By iden jects already undertaken, help avoid unnecessary dup and development work.

This project was a ma NACD. I hope the readers Directory will agree that undertaking.

This Directory therefore is also dedicated to those agencies and people who work in them who should and would have liked to have had this information but did't. Without their cooperation and interest in tracking data this Directory would, of course, not be possible.

Finally, it is the hope of NACD that by presenting the basic data without qualification, prejudice, or comment, that there will be some basis of research for others. It will show what functional fields are being ignored or overemphasized and what organizations get large amounts of Federal money. By identifying research projects already undertaken, the Directory may also help avoid unnecessary duplication of research and development work.

This project was a major undertaking for NACD. I hope the readers and users of this Directory will agree that it was a worthwhile undertaking.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

INTRODUCTION

The National Association for Community Development is a private, non-profit professional organization whose purpose is to stimulate and assist community program development and citizen participation. NACD supports the Nation's effort to conduct programs designed to eliminate poverty. It believes in the total commitment of society's resources to build progressive communities which serve their citizens. NACD supports the Office of Economic Opportunity and other Federal, state, and local governmental programs, private institutional and business community projects, and local community activities, concerned with human, economic and physical development.

The National Association for Community Development has recognized the substantial need for a Directory listing those consulting firms, agencies, and institutions engaged in technical assistance, training, research, and demonstration activities in support of Federal anti-poverty and human resource programs. NACD believes it is important that a comprehensive Directory of such contracts and grants awarded be published.

The Directory should be a valuable resource to the Federal Government, public and private agencies and institutions, and other various users throughout the country. Numerous sources have requested this basic contract information - where our Federal dollars are being allocated for social service assistance.

Departments of Labor, Commerce, Interior, Housing and Urban Development, and Health, Education and Welfare for the period January 1, 1968 to June 30, 1969. Projects listed are only those which are likely to have significance outside of the community in which they operate. For example, a training grant given to train teachers and teacher aides in a local Head Start Programs would not be listed but information on training grants utilizing innovative approaches or techniques for the training of teachers and teacher aides would be listed.

NACD intends to update this Directory at least annually. The information contained was gathered with the cooperation of the officials of the agencies involved and is based on the files and records of those agencies.

NACD believes the Directory will serve a number of purposes and users:

(1) It will be a source for local program administrators to know the kinds of innovative projects and programs which have been tested so that they might seek to use the results of those programs in strengthening and improving their own operations.

(2) As indication of the areas of interest and expertise of a wide variety of organizations, institutions and firms which have been engaged in carrying out such activities.

(3) It will be an indication of the amount of resources made available by various Federal departments and agencies in support of anti-poverty and human resource projects of this type, and an identification of the firms which have been receiving these funds.

It should be clear that NACD is not in a position to comment on the quality or capability of any of the organizations listed. The intent of the Directory is simply to provide information on grants, projects, and activities which have been carried out during the time period indicated, and the listings in this Directory should not in any way be taken as an endorsement of any of the organizations listed by NACD.

Questions concerning the content of the Directory including corrections or additions should be addressed to the National Association for Community Development, 1424 Sixteenth Street, Northwest, Suite 401, Washington, D. C. 20036.

The National Association for Community Development extends its appreciation to officials in the various Federal departments and agencies for their assistance in providing information made available in this Directory.

The original research and design of the Directory were carried out by Mrs. Joan Gaffney, Director of Membership Services, for NACD. The field work and data collection for the Directory were performed by Miss Edie Fraser, acting as a consultant to NACD.

ORGANIZATION OF THE DIRECTORY

The body of the Directory is an alphabetical listing of the institutions, firms and organizations which received grants that are included in this Directory. For each firm the address, length of the contract, the funding agency, the amount of the grant, and other available information about the project is given along with an identification of the nature of the grant within 25 functional categories. At the front of the Directory, there are 3 indices to make it easier to use the contents of the Directory.

The first index lists the firms included in the Directory by functional category and indicates the page number on which the firm will be found. The index will be helpful to users seeking to identify projects or organizations that have done work in a particular functional field, regardless of funding source or location.

The second index contains a listing of the firms and the grants by the Federal agency making the grant. This index will be helpful to the user seeking to identify the way in which a particular agency has utilized its resources or the kinds of projects it has supported.

The third index is a listing of the firms by state in the event the user wishes to identify the firms or organizations having performed work in this field which are located in a specific state. NACD welcomes suggestions or comments on the organization, presentation, and information in this Directory which would improve its usefulness.
